After a lavish festival in a village, the two cats were prowling together. One of the cats saw a big delicious looking cake and meowed. The other jumped up and picked it.

The first cat said, "It is my the cake because I saw it first"

The other cat said "It is my cake because I picked it up."

A monkey was passing by when it overheard the two cats fighting for their share of cake. The monkey thought to take advantage of the cats' fights and approached the two cats.

It came to the cats and said. "Don't fight my friends. I have two hands and I can easily divide the cake into two pieces. Let me equally share the cake among you both". The cats agreed and handed the cake over to the monkey.

The monkey split the cake into two parts. He shook his head and said, "Oh No! One is slightly bigger than the other one. Let me take a bite of the bigger one so it is as big as the other one". He had a big bite of the bigger piece of the cake and said "Oh No! This has become smaller now." He ate from the other. And thus, he went on eating from part to part and finally finished the whole cake. When all the cake was over, the cats were stunned by the happenings. It was very late when they realized that the monkey was making fools out of them, the entire time.

Moral “When two people fight the third one always gets the profit.”

II. Answer the following in 30-40 words each

1) Robin and his merry men were outlaws. They lived in the deep forest of Sherwood and made their living by robbing from the rich and shared it to poor and needy. They also fought against injustice.

2)The poetess compares the clothes to restless horses that are leaping and galloping with happiness. She also compares to witches in fairy tales who dance wildly because when the clothes flutter, they form bowl like shape that is round at the edges and hollow in the centre. The poetess also feels the clothes are shivering and skipping in the wind which is blowing happily in the merry March Wind.

3) Rukhsar bought a pair of iron tongs for her grandmother Amina, since she always burnt her finger

While making roti's

4) The poet does not want to be a lawyer, DJ, scientist or an air pilot

Answer the following in 90-100 words.

1. Rukhsar was a four year old orphan. She lived with her grandmother Amina in a village. She was a thin and pale little girl and her clothes were old and tattered. She was a kind and selfless girl. Even in such situation she was the happiest girl in the village. She had 3 paisa to spend on herself on the day of Id. She did not buy anything for herself at the Idgah fair but bought iron tongs for her grandmother. This shows that she was thoughtful as she was concerned about her grandmother whose hands always got burnt in the fire while making rotis. Though she was tempted to buy a few things at the fair she had self control. She loved her grandmother more than anything in the world.

2. Arion boarded a ship to sail back to Corinth. The sailors and the captain were very rude to him. They planned to rob Arion's money and throw him into the sea. They were very greedy and they knew that he had large sum of money. Arion came to know about their plan and asked them to spare his life. But they were. However, Arion was given two options, either to jump overboard or kill himself with his own sword. Arion requested the sailors to allow him to sing his best song. They loved the song as it was very sweet. After the song, Arion jumped into the sea and the sailors shared the money among themselves.
