(4 marks)

An old man and his wife lived in a little cottage. The old man worked in his farm while his wife grew vegetables and flowers in their garden. They were very sad and lonely because their children had moved away to the city and rarely came to visit them. The old lady tended to her plants lovingly and spoke to them at length. One day, the old woman was watering her plants as she usually did, when she suddenly heard a voice, "Mother! Mother!" The old woman was startled! She looked around but could see no one. "Mother, look down. It's me...the sunflower." When she looked down, she saw the sunflower moving from side-to-side. She was so happy that she had tears running down her cheeks.

She told her husband in the evening. He was surprised at first but when he went out and saw them talking, he was also very happy. Every day, he would spend some time with his 'green babies' as he called them before leaving for his farm. His babies were wise. They gave him advice about seeds and weather conditions. The couple did not feel lonely anymore. They decided to talk to their neighbours about planting trees in their gardens. Someday, their plants may also talk to them!

Q1) Where did the old man and his wife live?

Q2) What did the old man call the plants?

Q3) Complete these sentences.

a) The old woman was so happy that _____

b) The couple decided to talk to their neighbours about _____
