Bentley was wandering through the trees. The air smelt of oranges all around him. The weather was perfect and the oranges were growing bigger by the day. He liked to walk through the groves and loved the smell of the oranges but he didn't like that he and his family ate oranges all the time. Sometimes, he wanted to avoid them for weeks at a time.

He wished his family could grow other things like corn or the ingredients for his favorite dip that his mom made. His mouth watered just thinking about his favorite dip. Yes, those ingredients would be better than oranges all the time. "Mom, why do we have to have oranges almost every day?" Bentley asked. "Well, since we grow them, there are plenty around," his mom replied, "Does every kid eat as many oranges as we do?" he asked. "No, definitely not. There are parts of the country and parts of the world that don't have the type of weather that oranges grow in. We're actually very lucky!" "So some kids don't eat oranges at all?" "We actually send oranges all over so that if people can't grow their own oranges they can still buy and eat them," said Mom. Hmm... so people move foods all over the world.

The factories that make your favourite toys are not all in our little town here. The companies make the toys then send the toys to other places. So food and products move from where they can be grown or made easily to places where they can't be grown or made easily. "Wow! I never thought about where all of our food and toys come from or about people moving far away. It's very interesting," Bentley said. "It sure is. I'm glad you asked. I'm sorry you get tired of eating oranges all the time but I hope now it makes sense why we do."

"Yes, but I still might take a break from them every once in a while. Maybe I'll try to grow my own artichokes!" Bentley replied. Mom laughed and said, "Sure, honey. Now let's go make dinner."
