

INDIAN SCHOOL MUSCAT PRIMARY SECTION

STORY NO : 5 & 6

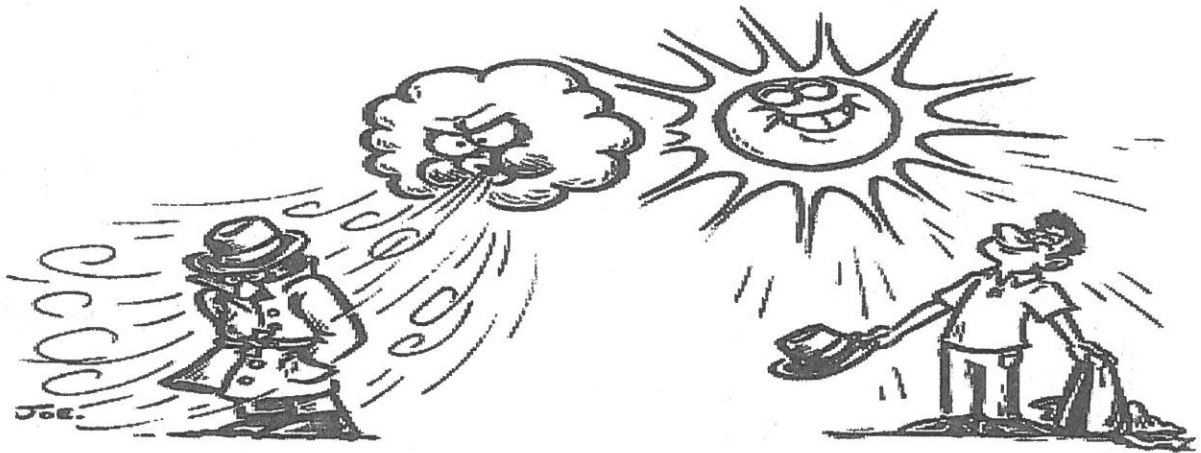

NAME:

RESOURCE PERSONS :Ms.MEENAKSHI.& Ms.REENA.S

CLASS: I

SEC:

The Wind and The Sun

Let us enjoy reading this story of The Wind and The Sun.

It was an autumn day. The wind and the sun had an argument.

The wind boasted, "I am stronger than you."

The sun mildly said, "No, you are not".

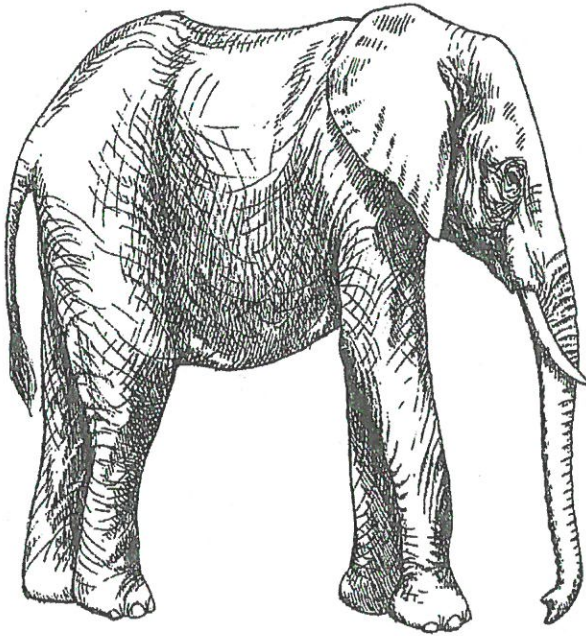

Just then, they saw a traveller wrapped in a blanket was passing by. The wind said, "Whoever separates the blanket from traveller is the stronger. Do you agree?"

The sun replied, "Ok. First you try."

The wind started blowing. The traveller wrapped his blanket around him. He blew harder. The traveller held his blanket firmer. He blew still harder. The traveller held his blanket still tighter. The harder the wind blew, the tighter and firmer did the traveller hold his blanket. The wind failed.

It was the Sun's turn. The sun smiled gently at the traveller. The traveller loosened his grip on the blanket. The sun smiled warmly. The traveller felt the warmth and soon took off the blanket. The sun was stronger than the wind.

The Elephant and the Tailor

There lived an elephant in a village. While going to river to take a bath regularly, he passed a tailor's shop. The tailor always gave him something to eat. The two became friends.

As usual, one day he put his trunk inside the shop. The tailor was not in a good mood as he had a quarrel with a customer.

The tailor instead of giving him something to eat pricked a needle into his trunk. The elephant silently went away.

The elephant reached the river and took his bath. After that he filled muddy water in his trunk. On his way back, he stopped at the tailor's shop and threw all the muddy water on the clothes in the shop. All the clothes were wet and stained. The tailor had to bear the loss.

Moral: As you sow, so shall you reap.