		The given statement refers to the importance of 'Critical Point Control'(1) in order to ensure effective performance of key activities in an organisation. Critical Point Control: It may not be either economical nor easy to monitor each and every activity in the organisation. Therefore, every organisation identifies and states its specific Key Result Areas (KRAs) (1) or critical points which require tight control and are likely to have a significant effect on the working of the business. Any deviations on these points are attended to urgently by the management. For example, if in an organisation, the expenditure on stationery goes up by 10%, it can be ignored but if the production cost goes up by 5%, it may call for managerial action. (1) Any relevant example.

		 The points highlighting the importance of planning mentioned in the above paragraph are described below: A. Reduces the risk of uncertainty: Planning relates to deciding in advance about the tasks to be performed in future. This enables a manager to anticipate changes and devise the ways to deal with changes and uncertain events effectively. B. Avoiding overlapping and wasteful activities: Planning ensures clarity in thought and action and serves as the basis of coordinating the activities and efforts of different individuals and departments. Therefore, by curtailing useless and redundant activities, it helps in the smooth working of the organisation's work without interruptions. Moreover, it makes detection of inefficiencies easier so that timely corrective measures may be taken to avoid them in future. The limitation of planning which adversely affects Payal's business is: Planning may not work in a dynamic environment: The business environment is dynamic in nature. Every organisation has to constantly adapt itself to changes in its environment in order to survive and grow. However, it difficult to anticipate all the likely future changes in the environment with utmost accuracy. Hence, even with planning, everything cannot be foreseen. 	2 marks Each 2×3 = 6 1 for heading 1 for explanation
1	32	Taylor advocated separation of planning and execution functions. (½) This concept was extended to the lowest level of the shop floor. It was known as functional foremanship. (½) Under the factory manager there was a planning in charge and a production in charge. Under planning in charge four personnel namely instruction card clerk, route clerk, time and cost clerk and a disciplinarian worked . These four personnel would draft instructions for the workers, specify the route of production, prepare time and cost sheet and ensure discipline respectively. Under Production in charge, personnel who would work were speed boss, gang boss, repair boss, and inspector . These respectively were responsible for timely and accurate completion of job, keeping machines and tools etc., ready for operation by workers, ensure proper working condition of machines and tools and check the quality of work. Clear explanation should be given under each personnel. Provide only 5 marks altogether if student draw diagram without explanation of various personnel/in charges under each. OR Unity of direction: Moving towards the same objectives through coordinated and focussed efforts. (1/2) One head and one plan. (1/2) This ensures unity of action and coordination. (½). It prevents overlapping of activities. (½) Example can be considered. Equity: All employees should be treated as fairly as possible. (½ This principle emphasises kindliness and justice in the behaviour of managers towards workers. (1/2) This will ensure loyalty and devotion. (1/2) .lazy personnel should be dealt with sternly to send the message that everyone is equal in the eyes of the management. $(\frac{1}{2})$ Order: "People and materials must be in suitable places at appropriate time for maximum efficiency." (1/2)Essentially it means orderliness(1/2). If there is a fixed place for everything and it is present there, then there will be no hindrance in the activities of business/ factory. (1/2) This will lead to increased productivity and efficiency. $(\frac{1}{2})$ Espirit de corps: Management should promote a team spirit of unity and harmony among employees. (1/2)A manager should replace 'I' with 'We' in all his conversations with workers to foster team spirit. (1/2) This will give rise to a spirit of mutual trust and belongingness among team members. (1/2)It will also minimise the need for using penalties. $(\frac{1}{2})$ Any Three valid points for each principle. (i) The type of organization so formed is 'Informal Organization'. Informal 33 organization is a network of personal and social relations (1 mark) not established or required by the formal organization but arising spontaneously as people associate with one another. (or any other correct meaning) (ii) Advantages of Informal Organisation: (Any two) (i) It leads to faster spread of information as well as a quick feedback. (ii) It fulfills the social needs of the members. (iii) It contributes towards fulfillment of organisational objectives by compensating for inadequacies in the formal organisation. (If an examinee has only listed the points, (1/2) mark for each point should be awarded) Limitations of informal organisation: (Any two) (i) It leads to spread of rumours which becomes a destructive force and may go against the interest of the formal organisation. (ii) It may lead to resistance to change which may delay or restrict growth. (iii) It pressurizes members to conform to group
